Christmas shopping chaos as arsonist targets clothes stores

by TOM BARNES

tbarnes@london.newsquest.co.uk

Businesses are counting the cost after clothes were set on fire in at least seven shops in Kingston town centre.

The Bentall Centre was evacuated of thousands of Christmas shoppers on Tuesday lunchtime causing chaos before the other fire attacks came to light.

Police stopped cars and arrested at least one bystander in a case of mistaken identity as they sought the arsonist.

A helicopter swooped over the town as shop CCTV was looked at.

A 52-year-old man was at a west London police station as the Kingston Guardian went to press after being arrested on suspicion of arson hours later.

The first fire, believed to be at the M&S nearest to Eden Street, started shortly before 1pm.

Fire trucks from Surbiton, Kingston and Twickenham attended small blazes at Marks and Spencer, Gap, Monsoon, White Stuff, Reiss and SuperDry, according to firefighters at the scene.

White Stuff manager Anthony Diabise said shutting could have cost thousands in lost revenue, but added despite the damage there would not be a "fire sale".

He said: "We were shut for over an hour-and-a-half during the busiest part of the shopping day in the run-up to Christmas. It was a big financial hit."

Shopper Stephen

Donnelly said: "It was really annoying because this is my only day off to do my Christmas shopping. People were more curious than scared, trying to find out what happened."

Police were investigating whether fires in Richmond town centre on Monday were connected.

Surrey Comet Second win for Bollywood troupe

Don't miss out on the Surrey Comet

by NAZIA DEWJI

ndewji@london.newsquest.co.uk

A Bollywood dance troupe has managed to win Kingston Spotlight for a second week running.

Karan's Bollywood Masterclass pipped singer Gina Purdue by just one vote to win the last round of town centre busking yet again.

Previous winners include Kingston double act Josh and Martha, teenage singing sensation Josh McDonough, and hip-hop dance act Vital Signz Dance.

Karan's Bollywood Masterclass, a 40-strong dance crew, mixed up their routine with a popular Christmas song by Mariah Carey before they launched into a full-on cultural dance extravaganza.

Dance instructor Nishi Pangali said: "Mixing Bollywood up with 'All I Want for Christmas' really got the crowd going. It made people stop in the middle of their busy shopping spree and watch."

"I am so happy the community has got behind us for a second week. It really shows

Dancing in the street: Karan's Bollywood Masterclass show off their moves in the town centre that Kingston has embraced our performances."

Ros Morgan, chief executive of Kingstonfirst, said: "The past few weeks of the competition have really shown that Kingston has a wealth of talented performers all of which are worthy of the title of Kingston's Brightest Star.

"To finish the competition with a record number of votes too has shown how much the public have enjoyed the performances."

Kingston Spotlight is expected to return next year following its first successful stint.

Fine for fake Blue Badge

A witness on her way to court has been fined £265 for displaying a fake Blue Badge.

At Richmond Magistrates' Court last Monday, Tracey Senior, 48, from Quarrey Road, Wandsworth, pleaded guilty to misusing a disabled person's parking card.

In May she parked in East Street to attend Kingston Crown Court as a trial witness, but did not have any change for the car park.

Instead, she displayed a Wandsworth-issued Blue Badge, which she had found while walking her dog.

Fraud investigators from Kingston Council found the badge's expiry date had been altered from 2011 to 2014.

Senior was fined £100 plus £150 costs and a £15 victim surcharge.

Carols in the cold

Singers braced the cold for a special Christmas carol sing-along last weekend.

The Kingston Choral Society turned up on Saturday for the festive event outside the Fircroft charity shop in Ewell Road, Tolworth.

There was mulled wine and tasty mince pies on the day.

Oh yes they did: Council leader Derek Osbourne, left, signed off the deal for Duncan Clark, centre. Chief executive Bruce McDonald, right, rubber-stamped the pay-off of £128,000. Mr Clark headed a children's department that Ofsted said was putting young people at risk

£128,000 for failed child services boss

by TOM BARNES

tbarnes@london.newsquest.co.uk

A Kingston Council director was given a £128,000 payoff after his department was criticised for failing to protect children.

Children's services boss Duncan Clark was paid a year's salary after his resignation in July. The money could have paid for another four safeguarding social workers.

Jonathan Isaby, political director of the TaxPayers' Alliance and a Kingston resident, described the payment as "eye-watering".

He said: "If someone resigns from a highly-paid job after serious errors occurred on their watch, they should not expect a penny in return."

Kingston Council chief executive Bruce McDonald declined to answer questions.

A council spokesman said: "The payment made was to bring about a clean break quickly so that we could get on with the job of improvement without delay. We consider this was in the interests of children and young people in Kingston and all taxpayers."

"In a case like this the alternative to a compromise agreement would be a contested departure under formal capability procedures would have taken a year or more."

"In addition there would have been the costs of dealing with the investigation, hearings and possibly a tribunal."

Mr Clark is now assistant children and adult services director at Medway Council in Kent. He declined to comment when contacted.

When asked at the beginning of last month, council leader Derek Osbourne said he did not know the details of the pay-off, though he said he had signed off Mr Clark's leaving package.

He said: "All I needed to be sure of was that the one-off payment was the best financial decision for the council, and I was. I understand that people will look at this and be angry but knowing what I do I can assure you, however hard it is to believe, this was the best option for the council."

A scrutiny panel looking at the recovery efforts following the Ofsted report will take place on January 8.

McFly visit: Doug and Tom sign books in Waterstones; Fans queue up, right Deadlinepix KT72588

It's all about poop

by LAURA PROTO

laura.proto@london.newsquest.co.uk

Tears, screaming girls and books about a pooping dinosaur can only mean one thing; McFly are in town.

Tom and Doug from McFly came back to Kingston last Tuesday evening to sign copies of their new children's book, The Dinosaur That Pooped Christmas.

The band first came to Kingston back in 2004 to sign copies of their debut single.

First in the queue were Sophie Reino, 18, her sister Danielle, 15, and Alice Palmiery, 18, from Morden, who arrived at 5.45am.

Sophie and Danielle's mother,

Sam Reino, 44, said: "They go all over the place to see them because they are major fans."

"It is brilliant for them to see them so close to home."

Little brother Robbie, nine, also got in on the action by coming down after school. He said: "I'm going to tell them [my sister] is in love with Dougie."

The McFly lads were met by screams and cheers as they entered the Kingston bookstore, with one waiting fan yelling:

"Tom, I love your chin."

Mandy Temlett, branch manager of Waterstones Kingston, said: "It's brilliant to have them here."

"It has been really well received and everyone is really excited."

"We would definitely have them back again."

More than 300 people attended the signing, with schoolgirls from Holy Cross and Coombe Girls flocking to Kingston straight after school in their uniforms to meet the boys.

The signing session lasted two hours and Tom and Dougie signed books for everyone who attended.

Burglars swipe gifts in nightmare before Xmas

by MIKE PYLE

mike.pyle@london.newsquest.co.uk

Burglars smashed their way into a house and sat by the Christmas tree as they unwrapped a family's presents before stealing them.

They decided which gifts they wanted to keep for themselves, loaded them into the back of the victim's prized Mini Cooper and drove off.

The thieves broke into Caroline Jeffcote's house in Boscombe Road, Worcester Park, on Monday, December 11, between 8.30am and 8.50pm.

They kicked down the front door of the house and found a stash of presents intended for Miss Jeffcote's family in Sunderland. She had picked some of the presents up from other family members and bought and wrapped some herself.

Miss Jeffcote, 40, said: "I had a suitcase in the front room that was full of presents to take to my sister's in Sunderland."

"They went and unwrapped them and took what they wanted. It was mostly alcohol and there was some cash my mum had put in a card for me."

"It's such a shame – people have gone out and bought these presents and then someone has just come along and taken them. It's so sad.

Victim: Caroline Jeffcote

"They took both sets of keys for my car and then took the presents away in that."

"It's more than just a car to me – it's got sentimental value as I bought it just after a friend of mine died. We decided to go for what we dreamed of."

"That car was my little baby."

Items stolen included 24 bottles of wine, a GPS watch for running and cash.

Miss Jeffcote said: "I'm a part of a wine club so it was all good stuff – there's probably someone taking posh wine to a chav Christmas party now."

Police want people to be vigilant for Miss Jeffcote's metallic blue convertible Mini Cooper as the car is distinctive and may have been left in the area.

PC Duncan Harris, of Sutton's crime prevention team, said people should be especially careful to secure their homes over Christmas as "criminals consider Christmas to be a time of taking rather than giving".

If you have any information about the burglars who stole Miss Jeffcote's Christmas presents or you saw anything suspect in the area at the time you can call police on 020 8649 0777 or the charity Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Superhero hits the big screen

Could this be Surbiton's new superhero?

The Divider, amateur film-making group Sutton Film Makers' first feature film, was launched at the Sutton Empire Cinema on Saturday, December 8.

The film has evolved over a number of years and is funded by scriptwriter, producer and director, Jim Rogers.

Made along with Cornerhouse Theatre in Surbiton and Production Partners, the film tells the story of David Ider, who takes on the guise of the Divider following a childhood accident.

Now on: Adam Watts with director Jim Rogers

The uprising of a villain, Wesley Marks, sparks his journey to his new persona as a hero and his pursuit of justice. The group is aiming to enter the film into various film festivals during 2013.

Borough's make up shows cultural mix

The number of British white people in Kingston has dropped by 10,000 in 10 years, according to the latest 2011 census data.

UKIP's Kingston and Surbiton chairman John Moran said the census showed people were free to move where they wanted to live.

But Liberal Democrat council leader Councillor Derek Osbourne said: "Population grows the way it grows. Kingston is a multicultural borough and it has always had a mix of cultures. I don't think that direct immigration is that much of a problem."

More than 600 people listed their religion as "Jedi knight", 17 put "heavy metal" and six stated they practised "witchcraft", while the number of Christians dropped from 64.6 per cent in 2001 to 52.9 per cent.

The Rev Jonathan Wilkes said the congregation at All Saints Kingston had risen.

He said: "In part it is telling us

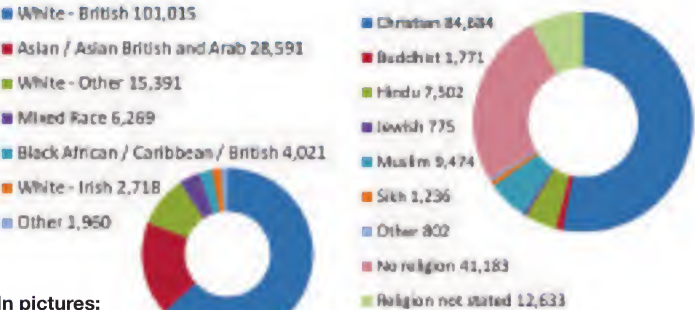

Christianity is less a religion and more decision and commitment."

Marilyn Mason, British Humanist Association member, said: "This census just reflects the truth more closely than the previous ones had done."

Since 2001, population grew by almost 9 per cent to 160,060 people.

Data also showed three residents were born in Antarctica, 25 in London [were born in Antarctica] and 51 in England and Wales.

Eco-group to help run filter beds?

by TOM BARNES

tbarnes@london.newsquest.co.uk

A property developer planning to build floating homes on the Surbiton filter beds site has finally reached an agreement to bring in a conservation group.

Hydro Properties boss Phillip Wallis told a planning committee last week that the Wildfowl and Wetland Trust (WWT) will help run the site, if the company pushes through its planning application.

Hydro announced the deal with WWT back in August, but was forced to backtrack after the eco-charity insisted no deal had been struck.

But Mr Wallis insisted the project was on. He said: "The deal has always been on the table despite what has been said. The reason WWT was reluctant to go public was because it was lobbied by Friends Of Seething Wells (FOSW)."

In a letter handed by Hydro Properties to spectators at the meeting WWT confirmed it had stopped short of adding its voice in support.

WWT said there was no formal agreement in place but admitted to a deal with Hydro "in principle".

Battle lines were drawn between developers and opposition group FOSW with each

Controversial plans: An artist's impression of the floating homes handing out marketing material in a bid to win over the packed meeting hall.

Both groups had turned up to have their say and discuss a report presented to the committee from the council's eco company Baker Shepherd and Gillespie.

First up were residents linked to FOSW who disputed the findings, claiming the scheme would have a detrimental effect on wildlife, specifically the roosting Daubenton bat.

Mr Wallis went next, though barely audible through a chorus of boos and heckles, pointing to the lifting of a Natural England objection and the deal with the WWT as proof the scheme was "right for Surbiton".

He also got little support from councillors, who took it in turns to condemn the scheme, often followed by rapturous applause from the audience.

Speaking after the meeting Simon Tyrrell, director of Friends of Seething Wells said: "We were enormously pleased with the massive show of support from residents, who turned up yet again en masse, despite the freezing temperatures and Christmas parties."

Ian Pratt, from the River Thames Sports Alliance, said: "The overwhelming majority of river users are fully against the Hydro plan because it will lead to a dangerous cross-flow of river traffic and navigational conflicts."

Hostel aims to expand

Chessington is set to nearly double one of its hostels for the homeless.

The Four Oaks Centre, in Mount Road, has 14 bedsits and Kingston Council is considering a planning application for 12 more bedrooms.

The hostel was built in the 1950s and until 2002 was used as an adolescent resource centre.

The decision was expected to be made as this newspaper went to press.

According to charity workers, there are about 20 people sleeping rough in Kingston town centre alone.

Kingston Churches Action on Homelessness (KCAH) has opened its annual winter shelter accommodating up to 12 people.

A Kingston Council committee discussed the hostel expansion last week and said "there is a clear need for facilities to address the urgent needs of the homeless in the borough" and that "these needs may increase as welfare reforms are implemented and council resources are limited to respond."

Our street pastors did a great job

I am writing to thank Kingston's street pastors for looking after me in the early hours of Sunday morning last week.

I had just been removed from a club because I had tripped and knocked myself unconscious.

They looked after me and kept me warm while I waited to be taken to hospital.

It bothers me that without the aid of the Kingston pastors I would have been left outside unconscious and very cold.

It gives me great hope to know that, in this modern world of greed and self promotion, there are still good, honest people selflessly giving up their own time to help others.

I have learned many things from this experience:

1. Do not drink alcohol again.
2. Private dentists are very expensive (I broke three teeth when I tripped over).
3. Be less self-centred and try to help others.

NAME AND ADDRESS
 SUPPLIED

Hydro changed its plans to address our concerns

On behalf of Kingston Rowing Club I would like to correct inaccuracies in last week's letter by Ian Pratt (Objections to filter beds plan continue to flood in, December 13).

Hydro's proposals have indeed changed. Kingston Rowing Club approached Hydro Properties and, in September, presented its concerns that its original proposal for a drop-off pontoon for pleasure cruisers would create dangerous cross-flow traffic and that the width of the residential moorings could encroach on the usable width of river.

Hydro accepted the argument and agreed to remove the drop-off point.

In late September, Hydro met representatives of most of the rowing clubs who presented their safety concerns. Hydro then agreed to limit the width of the residential moorings.

Hydro has now changed its application to address these serious hazards and it has offered a letter of intent and a place on the management board to all rowing clubs – not just to Kingston Rowing Club.

As a result, Kingston Rowing Club has withdrawn its objections to the riverside aspects of the development.

The club has written to the planners to place on the formal record these safety issues and the developer's actions to address them.

This, combined with its public commitments to work with the river user community, should make it more difficult for any future owner or developer to renege on the protection of river safety that is currently offered.

The club committee has to consider how members' safety might be protected in the event of the development being approved and our measured approach has obtained beneficial changes to the plans after short discussions.

However, the committee takes the view responsibility for deciding the fate of the development lies with residents, councillors and planners and it is for individual members to contribute to the debate as they see fit – for or against.

I hope that this clarifies the situation.

JOHN WHITE
 Kingston Rowing Club

River-related proposals remain unacceptable

I am writing on behalf of Walbrook Rowing Club to confirm we remain totally opposed to the river-related aspects of Hydro's plans for the Surbiton filter beds.

We are concerned about the misleading statements issued by Hydro and its lobbyist Cratus, which imply the concerns of the rowing community and other river users have been fully resolved. They have not.

The river-related proposals remain totally unacceptable and, if approved, they would render a reach of the River Thames, which has been used for river sports for more than 140 years, dangerous and unsuitable for rowing and many other river sports.

In the short term, the impact of Hydro's development would be felt by well over 1,000 river sports men, women and children and many more over the longer term.

This is why both Sport Kingston and Sport England have lodged formal objections.

Walbrook Rowing Club is a member of the River Thames Sports Alliance and we stand shoulder to shoulder with the large and diverse range of river sports clubs that oppose Hydro's plans.

We urge readers to email or write to Kingston Council to object to this development.

JOCK WISHART
 Vice-chairman and acting captain
 Walbrook Rowing Club

There is an alternative

Census data on religious affiliation for the royal borough of Kingston reflects fairly accurately the national picture.

[The figures put] those professing Christianity at 52.9 per cent, and those professing no religion at 25.7 per cent.

This would also seem to bear out the substantial support last year for the Kingston Educational Trust's bid to run north Kingston's new secondary school.

As the only humanist celebrant resident in the borough – although not the only one working here – I have seen this shift in attitudes to religion reflected in increasing demand for non-religious funerals, naming ceremonies and weddings. And yet it is still quite common for a family member to remark what a pleasant surprise it is to find that there is an alternative to the traditional service.

ENCHANTED STORY TRAIL

● RHS Garden Wisley; December 22 to January 6, (trail closed Christmas Day and New Year's Eve); rhs.org.uk/gardens/wisley; 0845 2609000

Children are needed for a special Christmas quest to save a Surrey garden from a never-ending winter, writes Tom Barnes. Youngsters can delight at the magical interactive world of the Royal Horticulture Society Garden Wisley on an enchanting quest to save the garden from the cold snap.

This wintry tale filled with fun, music and wonderful features strange characters, tropical orchids and English orchards, mysterious ponds and mystical pines.

Clues will help to solve the riddles that will save Wisley but be careful because it might turn your hair purple! The Enchanted Story Trail is a Rose Theatre production by Bad Physics, an interactive theatre group that puts the audience at the heart of the show.

The group has won rave reviews for the educational shows including an adventurous reinvention of The Wind in the Willows.

Artistic director Dan Bird says: "This is completely interactive theatre mainly for kids but something adults can enjoy as well. As far as we know no one has done this sort of thing before so it is genuinely something new for people to enjoy.

"Wisley is fantastic this time of year, really beautiful and what we are trying to do is give people going there something extra to enjoy.

"There are some great actors and great sound installations so you can get a real sense of what it is like to work at the gardens."

Conditions of acceptance of advertisements

General

- The following conditions apply to the placing of an order for insertion of advertisements in Newsquest Media Group ("Newsquest") printed or electronic publications. Each order will form a separate agreement and English law will apply. Any change to these conditions must be agreed by us in writing (which means by exchange of letter, fax or email). An "advertiser" means any person or organisation placing an advertisement on their own account or on behalf of another.

Contents

- The advertiser confirms that the advertisement complies with all applicable legislation, regulations and codes of practice, including the codes supervised by the Advertising Standards Authority. We may reject or require changes to any advertisement so as to comply with legal or moral obligations placed on us or the advertiser; to avoid infringing the rights of a third party or any relevant code of practice; or to meet our published production and quality specifications.
- The advertiser further confirms that:
 - the publication of the advertisement will not breach any contract, infringe the copyright, trademark or other right of any third party and is not libellous of any person;
 - all licences and consents from third parties necessary for the publication of the advertisement have been obtained and paid for, including consent from living persons identified in copy or pictures (photographic or otherwise);
 - in respect of an investment advertisement, the contents have been approved by, or the advertiser is, and authorised person within the meaning of the Financial Services Act 1986 as amended or the advertisement is otherwise permitted under that Act.

- Payment
 - All advertisements must be paid for in full at the time of booking unless credit has been agreed. The price shall be the amount fixed by our published rate card on the date of acceptance of the order plus VAT where applicable. For non-credit advertisers, we will cancel publication of an advertisement that has not been paid for on time. For credit advertisers, we will cancel publication of any future advertisements if payment is not made in accordance with our payment terms. For credit advertisers, interest will be charged on late payments at the rate of 3% above the Bank of England's base lending rate from the date payment is due together with the administration costs of collecting an overdue debt.
 - By placing an order with us, an advertising agency confirms that it contracts as principal with full authority from its client in all matters connected with the order and is responsible for all payments due. We will only accept advertisements from advertising agencies if they are recognised by us.
 - We will try to give notice of increases, but we reserve the right to change our advertising rates at any time. This will not affect contracts, including any fixed term agreement for a series of advertisements.

Box numbers

- We will use reasonable efforts to forward replies to box numbers within a reasonable time, but we are not responsible for any failure or delay caused by circumstances beyond our reasonable control, or for any losses relating to an advertiser's business or any loss that is not reasonably foreseeable by both parties.

Cancellation

- We will notify the advertiser of the latest time that orders can be cancelled (the "booking" deadline) and the latest time that advertising copy can be received by us ("the copy deadline"). An advertiser may cancel up until copy deadline and we will make reasonable efforts to re-sell the space, but the advertiser will be liable for the full price if the space is not sold and we will reclaim any unearned volume-based discount. Private advertisers booking by telephone or online may cancel in accordance with relevant law, but no refund shall be available after the copy deadline unless cancellation is due to our negligence. If the copy is not received by the copy deadline, we will not be liable if the advertisement does not appear, but the advertiser will remain liable to make full payment for the price of the advertisement.
- We will try to satisfy an advertiser's request regarding the positioning of an advertisement, but no guarantee of position can be given unless agreed by us and paid for at the rate then current.

Errors

- We are not liable for any error, misprint or non-appearance of an advertisement unless caused by our negligence, in which case the advertiser will be entitled to a re-insertion or proportionate refund. The advertiser is solely responsible for checking the advertisement on each insertion and ordering correction where necessary. Except where we have been negligent, we shall not be liable for an error or misprint that, in our reasonable opinion, does not materially detract from the advertisement. We shall not be liable in any case for losses relating to any business or public fund-raising for the advertiser, such as lost customers, revenue or profit.

Copyright

- Advertisements are accepted on condition that we have the right to publish them online as well as in any booked titles. The copyright in work or material we contribute to or re-work for an advertisement belongs to us. We will dispose of advertiser's copy, artwork, photographs or other materials after six months unless collected.

General

- We shall not be liable if our publishing activities are restricted or prevented by any law, act or event beyond our reasonable control (including, for example, industrial dispute). In such case, the advertiser shall accept publication when available or otherwise may cancel the order by written notice and pay only for work done and materials used.
- We will use the advertiser's details for internal administration. Unless the advertiser tells us not to in writing at any time, we may also share details with other Newsquest companies or with carefully selected third parties, who may send information about goods and services.
- The advertiser will be liable to pay us for all costs, losses, expenses and damages of any kind suffered or incurred by us as a result of legal claims or actions, actual or threatened, arising from the advertiser's breach of these conditions or the publications of the advertisement, unless caused by our own negligent act or failure.
- We may cancel the order at any time if the advertiser breaches these conditions and the breach is not capable of remedy or it continues for seven days after we have given written notice of it, or if we reasonably believe the advertiser is unable to pay debts or the advertiser goes or threatens to go out of business.

Method of payment

We will be pleased to accept your payment by any of the following methods:

- CHEQUE - Made payable to NEWSQUEST (LONDON) LTD.
- BACS - Electronic Bank Transfer • CASH - Paid to one of our Branch Offices.
- CREDIT/DEBIT CARD - Please phone to pay by Visa/Mastercard/Switch/Delta

All the Small things for Ks

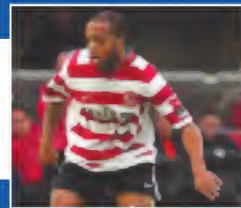

Kingstonian striker Wade Small netted his first league goal for more than two months as Ks made it three wins in a row on Sunday.

Small, pictured right, struck in the 76th minute to put his side 1-0 up at Cray Wanderers before Andre McCollin's penalty and Matt Pattison's 10th goal of the season – either side of a Jack Clark effort for the hosts – wrapped up a 3-1 win.

Ks host Concord Rangers on Saturday before travelling to Met Police on Boxing Day.

Sydney Games still inspires

Kingston's Josie Inverdale has to pinch herself at the thought of playing on the very same Australian pitches that kick-started her love affair with the sport, writes Ben Baker.

Inverdale, daughter of TV presenter John, found herself in the stands at the 2000 Olympic Games in Sydney, watching on as the world's best hockey players went head-to-head.

Fast forward 12 years and the Kingston-born 20-year-old is gearing up to strut her stuff at the same venue after being selected in Team GB's 120-strong squad heading off to January's Australian Youth Olympic Festival.

But following a season with Leicester Hockey Club where Inverdale helped the side win both the indoor and outdoor Premier League titles, she is not heading Down Under just to make up the numbers.

"I actually went to watch the Olympics in Sydney back in 2000 when I was eight and to think I will be playing on the same pitches as the Games were held on is amazing," said the former Kingston Grammar School student.

"I have to do an exam out there in the British Embassy unfortunately because it was scheduled for the day we fly.

"But I don't mind too much, I am just really happy to be part of the team and we feel a medal is a real possibility.

"I had a good year internationally too as I was part of the England team that won a bronze medal out in Holland at the EuroHockey Junior Nations Championship.

"It will be a little bit different in Australia as we are Great Britain, but it shouldn't be a problem. A training camp in Malaga that should do us a world of good."

Fordham starts bid to return to competitive darts at Ks' home

Viking's dart-breaking story

by STUART AMOS

samos@london.newsquest.co.uk

If Andy Fordham stands on the oche at the 2017 BDO World Championships, his road to redemption will have started in Kingston.

The 50-year-old 2004 world champion, affectionately known as the Viking, played his first solo exhibition at Kingsmeadow last month, marking a significant moment on his comeback trail.

The larger-than-life star, who had a stint on Celebrity Fit Club in 2005, quit darts due to health reasons in 2007, but returned to the game that made him famous in 2010 for a brief spell on the PDC circuit.

But, having again faltered, Fordham – who has piled on much of the 15 stone he lost five years ago – has given himself five years to get back to the top so his new granddaughter will be able to watch him take the stage – and remember it.

He said: "I really want to get back up there."

"I think I came back too soon the first time.

"My back was going and my confidence was down. People were sponsoring me and the money was just being thrown away really.

"I appreciate what people did for me, but until I could give it 100 per cent I felt like I was letting them down, so I stopped.

"This is the best I've felt in a long time. I'm beginning to feel more and more confident all the time.

"In terms of my health, everything else is good apart from my weight.

"I became a grandad this year and I love her to bits. It has given me a new lease of life and I'd love her to see me up there on the stage and on TV.

"I've given myself five years. She will be five years old then and then she'd be able to understand and remember it."

Which is more than Fordham can say about his 2004 triumph, that came at the peak of his drinking excesses.

He said: "I've heard some people say they need a drink to get up on stage, but I would have had about eight or nine before I left the hotel room.

"They reckon one day I had 62 bottles of Holsten Pils and then I went on to spirits after that – and I still remember locking up the pub after that.

"I can't remember anything about the [title] win, that tells you how much I used to drink. It worked though. I don't remember getting the trophy, getting the cheque, nothing.

"It wasn't until I saw the DVD that I realised how much everyone enjoyed seeing me win."

The glitz and glamour of that triumph – Fordham pocketed £50,000 in prize money and then another £300,000 from spin-offs in the 12 months following – has long since faded.

But his night at Kingsmeadow could be the boost he needs to return to the top.

He said: "I've started doing exhibitions but until this one I had been doing them with friends.

"I've got to get my fitness back.

"My back is still a problem that affects practicing as well as playing.

"If it goes well I'm going to take each exhibition one by one, until I can do them regularly on my own.

"There is a lot of money to be earned from the exhibition circuit and getting back to the top."

A lot of bottle: Andy Fordham enjoying a bottle of non-alcoholic lager as he bids to climb his way back to the top of the darts world

Surbiton new girls can only get Strong-er

Former Team GB international Chloe Strong's loss was very much Surbiton's gain in 2012, writes Stuart Amos.

The 29-year-old, who lists Cheam among her former clubs, was cut from the British squad in August 2011, which ultimately led to a summer move to Sugden Road from Women's Hockey League Premier Division rivals Slough.

It meant Strong missed out on the London Olympics, but was able to lead Surbiton ladies to the Conference East title, promotion to the top flight for the first time via the play-offs and a women's cup final appearance last year.

The season of success for Croydon-born Strong – who has 22 international caps for Great Britain and England under her belt – saw Surbiton claim the Surrey Sports Awards team of the year trophy last week.

And captain Strong, who is currently sidelined expecting her first child, is hoping that with her team well placed in the table for a title push, it will be no flash in the pan.

"The success of last year has already attracted Great Britain internationals like Georgie Twigg to the club, so we are only going to get stronger," she said.

"There are so many young players coming through the club ranks, who already have representative honours, so over the next three years they should be coming through into the first team.

"The girls have started really well this year, so it probably shows they don't really need people like me already.

"It is a target to challenge at the top, I just hope they can keep it up."

SPORTSbrief

ATHLETICS: Stragglers Running Club's Justin West clocked 43 minutes, 58 seconds to finish 20th at the South of the Thames 7.5 mile Championships in Richmond Park on Saturday. The 40-year-old's time was good enough to see him finish second in the over-40s category, while the race was won by Belgrave Harriers' Paskwar Owor in a time of 40:00 – seven seconds ahead of second-placed John Gilbert. Meanwhile, St Mary's University student Jamie Millbank won the Kingston parkrun on his event debut as he clocked 18:24 – 41 seconds ahead of his nearest rival.

FOOTBALL: Ks boss Alan Dowson has not closed the door on midfielders Saheed Sankoh and Charles Ofusu-Hene after letting them join Harrow Borough on month-long loan deals at the weekend. "They have a lot to offer, but what they need at the moment is games," said the manager. "They'll do well there, so we'll have a look at the situation in a month's time."

FOOTBALL: Corinthian Casuals made it four defeats in their past five games with a 2-1 defeat to Faversham Town in front of the club's lowest home Ryman Division One South attendance of the season. The result sees them hovering four points above the drop zone ahead of this week's trip to second-bottom Three Bridges.

SPORTS PERSONALITY: Kingston AC & Polytechnic Harriers athlete David Weir finished fifth – with seven per cent of the vote – behind winner Bradley Wiggins at the BBC's Sports Personality of the Year awards on Sunday. Weir, 32, won four gold medals at the London 2012 Paralympics.

RUGBY UNION: Kingston's Surrey One resurgence continued as they beat Old Tiffinians 21-7 at Hook Road on Saturday. It sees Kingston end the year fifth in the table, but only four points adrift of second-placed Old Cranleighans.

TENNIS: Surbiton Racket & Fitness Club youngsters Alexander Page, 11, and Sally Pethybridge, 9, have been named in the LTA's Aegon FutureStars programme for 2013.
